Describe a time when you had to persuade someone to do follow an idea you had. What was the idea, how did you persuade the person, and how successful were you?

After I completed the final project of my Master, I wanted to present my result at the European institutions. For this I needed the help of my external supervisor who works at the European Economic and Social Committee. I persuaded my external supervisor to let me present in front of the European Economic and Social Committee. I did this by doing my final project on a topic that was relevant for them and is currently in the spotlight of policy development. Furthermore, the fact my final project was of considerable quality made it easier to convince my external supervisor.
