

The story behind this map

I travel a lot for work, study and personal things. As a result of this I sometimes have trouble keeping up with myself. By making a map of my visits to the different provinces of the country I live in (the Netherlands) I can make visible for myself the degree I hurried. It serves as a way to reflect on my travel habits and hopefully adjust them, so I can feel less hurried.

The map

